Mental Health Condition Insights

A significant number of employees reported experiencing mental health challenges:

Regional Employee Distribution

Employee representation is spread across different regions with fairly balanced proportions:

□ Diversity is strong and no region is over- or under-represented, supporting a globally inclusive workforce.

Social Isolation Ratings

Most employees report moderate to high levels of social isolation, with higher rating counts in categories 3, 4, and 5.

- ❏ Remote work arrangements may be contributing to reduced interpersonal connection. Supporting programmes like virtual engagement sessions and periodic meet-ups would be beneficial.

Work-Life Balance & Sleep Quality

Sleep Quality

Sleep ratings vary, with a notable number rating Average or Poor sleep quality.

Work-Life Balance

Work-life balance ratings lean more toward moderate levels rather than high.

- ❏ Employees may be struggling with boundaries between work and personal time, especially remote workers.

Job Satisfaction

Majority of employees fall in categories Neutral to Somewhat Satisfied.

- ❏ While job satisfaction is not critically low, there is room to improve engagement, recognition programmes, and workload balance.

Key Recommendations

1 Strengthen mental wellness support programmes

Coaching, therapy access, and mental health resources for all employees.

2 Create more structured social connection activities for remote workers

Virtual engagement sessions and periodic meet-ups to reduce isolation.

3 Encourage clearer work-hour boundaries

Support better sleep and work-life balance through defined working hours.

4 Implement employee recognition and career-growth initiatives

Boost job satisfaction through recognition programmes and development opportunities.
